FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

'MOVING UP, MOVING ON' WITH BR. LEO V. RYAN, SCV

HOUSTON (Jan. 18, 2006) — In response to recent scandals involving executive branch officials, members of Congress and lobbyists the Bush Administration went so far as to require White House officials to attend compulsory briefings on ethics. For those outside the White House ambit, there's Br. Leo V. Ryan, CSV, former dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Notre Dame. He also serves as editor of How Ethics Contribute to Profit, and Human Action in Business, Praxiological and Ethical Dimensions.

Br. Leo V. Ryan will deliver a free, open-to-the-public lecture, titled "Moving Up, Moving On: How to Manage an Ethical Career," at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 7, in the Ahern Room of Crooker Center, 3909 Graustark, on the campus of the University of St. Thomas. The Center for Business Ethics of the Cameron School of Business sponsors this lecture.

The lecture will address how to build an ethical career in a business and governmental environment that seems wracked with scandal.

Contact Dr. Daryl Koehn, director of the Center for Business Ethics, at 713-942-5917 for more information.

Br. Ryan serves as honorary chair of the Leo V. Ryan Center for Creativity and Innovation, which is part of the College of Commerce and the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business at DePaul University. The Center offers numerous programs, workshops, seminars, and its facility to help individuals, teams and organizations unleash their creativity.

The University of St. Thomas, dedicated to educating leaders of faith and character, is a private institution committed to the liberal arts and to the religious, ethical and intellectual tradition of Catholic higher education.
