ROME, ITALY

JANUARY 1-13, 2018

ENGL 1342 Dr. Jim Barloon

We'll divide our reading in Rome, the Eternal City, between Dante and Shakespeare-- the two writers who, according to T.S. Eliot, "divide the modern world." Dante wrote his Divine Comedy, a virtual guidebook to the medieval mind, while in exile from his be-loved Florence. Shakespeare was also fascinated by the grandeur of ancient Rome. He wrote four Roman plays, including Julius Caesar and Antony and Cleopatra, the two plays we'll read. Now these works play a central part in the storied, centuries-long drama of Rome. 0
