DETAILS: Chopin lovers get your fill at the Second International Competition for Adult Amateurs with award-winning pianists Jose Feghali and Adam Golka. Feghali and Golka will conduct master classes and perform for this two-day event which also includes private workshops with the participants. The competition is comprised of adult amateur pianists who perform Chopin's music as their hobby. These events for young pianists are designed to enhance their piano skills by participating in master classes taught by two world-class artists. University of St. Thomas music major, Michelle Shannah, will perform with Feghali. Shannah, a student of UST adjunct piano professor Paul Krystofia, vice president of the Chopin Society of Houston.

This is a two-day event:

Saturday, Oct. 28
- Adult Competition, 5-9 p.m.
